

CDLL OVERVIEW 2017

EMPOWERING YOUTH
STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Nearly 1.8 billion young people between 10 and 24 years old live today on our planet, more than any other time in human history. Nine out of ten live in countries where economic, civic and social opportunities are insufficient to address their needs in transition to adulthood.

Youth is a critical time in human development. Today's young people are approaching adulthood in a world vastly different from previous generations where destructive influences, violence and substance use, social conformity and pressures and economic challenges, have radically transformed the landscape. In Lebanon youth are living this transition while having to face a prolonged humanitarian crisis that presents significant assaults on their safety, well-being and community.

For 11 years, CDLL has witnessed the struggle of the youth, lying behind addiction and negative patterns, putting their lives at stake, clouding their judgment and confusing their view about the world and their future. For 11 years, CDLL has been fighting for one vision: strong youth, solid family and a healthier society.

CDLL was founded as a Christian mission to serve broken persons regain hope in life. It helped transform the life of individuals who are today contributing members of society. Putting the life of a person at the center, and based on an integrated approach and proven international models CDLL developed its rehabilitation, prevention and community programs.

We worked hand in hand with the family of the person suffering from dependency to build solid knowledge and experience around substance addiction and rehabilitation. We raised awareness in society and partnered with the private sector to support those individuals become productive and lead a sustainable recovery.

Our experience led us to advance our prevention program into one that adopts a comprehensive community-based approach where every member of the community is empowered to fight this epidemic and rethink the foundation to a healthier lifestyle.

Furthermore, in 2016, we have launched a community development program that came from our growing concern to provide a comprehensive support to marginalized and resourceless youth and families to recover their livelihood and contribute to the advancement of their communities.

Challenges remain and we have all the will to build solid local partnerships, mobilize bigger financial support to recover infrastructure and transform "at-risk" youth to "opportunity" ones. We will work relentlessly to help them bring down their obstacles, overcome their brokenness and by all means regain their dignity and flourish.

I thank you all for your never-failing support and belief in CDLL, and I urge you to join forces in providing concrete alternatives to youth as their life choices will fundamentally influence the chances for a healthier, prosperous and peaceful Lebanon.

11 YEARS OF SERVICE AND STILL

2006 CDLL – Cénacle de La Lumière started in 2006 through a volunteer-based initiative with 15 volunteers to offer shelter and primary assistance to addicts in need of help and to provide support to their families

2007 Our recovery program was built based on two axes: The Christian Spirituality and the Therapeutic Community Model.

2008 The model progressed as an integrated multidisciplinary approach and was implemented through 7 sectors of services: psychological counseling, health care, family follow-up, legal support, social empowerment, professional and educational orientation, and spiritual coaching.

2009 We launched our “Go Right” Campaign as a major awareness initiative and youth mobilization.

2010 We partnered with psychiatric department of Hotel Dieu De France to work together on the recovery of our beneficiaries.

2011 We signed our first contract with the Ministry Of Social Affairs that subsidizes our rehabilitation program since then. We launched our volunteer-based social venture initiative “In Our Kitchen”, selling pizzas while providing and scaling up vocational and life skills to the youth.

2012 We officially partnered up with Trepmpoline-asbl rehab in Belgium.

2015 We were officially recognized as a member of the European Federation of Therapeutic Communities (EFTC).

2016 On our 10th anniversary, we launched our Out-Patient Recovery Program, welcoming individuals with mild to moderate addiction, of different ages and genders and allowing them to keep going to work or school and stay close to their families.

2017 It is a booming year witnessing the growth of our prevention program reaching more than 9,000 persons and implementing our Community-Based Prevention Pilot Program in Blat-Jbeil, one of a first in Lebanon in partnership with AVSI, CESVI and UNICEF. We are expecting to reach “more than 8,500 person till end of June 2018. Moreover, we launched a national awareness campaign through which we offered to youth, adults and caregivers “www.baladrugs.com”, the first credible “Online substance abuse education service” in English and in Arabic. It is also the year when our Community development program was funded for the second time in a row by MEPI-US embassy to boost the job opportunities of 65 women and men. This year also knew a 40% increase in applications for addiction recovery as well as a 40% rise in the retention rate at the In-patient rehabilitation program.

DID YOU KNOW

Since 2006, we have reached more than 23,000 persons through our direct awareness and prevention programs.

BALA ■ WHEN YOU NEED RELIABLE ADVICE

A, 37 years old, Recovering from Alcohol Addiction

I started drinking at the age of 18, just like everyone else. I used to drink occasionally, maybe once a month, but then I did it more frequently. However, I never thought I would become an addict. After losing my wife and daughter in a car accident at the age of 30, I started drinking every night so I would disconnect from the world, from my emotions, and from my negative thoughts. I avoided everyone; my parents, my friends, and my colleagues at work. I could not get myself to stop drinking!

My alcohol addiction was clear from the way I smelled, walked, and my failure at work in my relationships with people. It was very scary! I felt very alone and huddled up in my own world.

When I started to realize how lonely I had become, I was terrified. I was 37 and ashamed to ask my parents for their help. Now I am at CDLL Rehabilitation Center and recovering from my addiction. Even though I hated it, I was glad I asked for help.

OUR TESTIMONIES

DID YOU KNOW

In the Middle East and the Arab countries, we lack a trustworthy source of information on addiction and substance use.

CDLL launched in the beginning of 2017, www.baladrugs.com, an awareness online platform that talks to kids, adolescents, parents, and care-givers about addiction and substance abuse, provides a platform for discussions and will disseminate awareness videos of real testimonies.

S, 25 years old Recovered from Drug Addiction

“We are having a baby”, my wife said to me. I was ready for this. I was ready to become a father. I have been clean for years and I truly deserved to have some happiness and love in my life. I am an ex-addict. I started using drugs at a very early age. I was 11 at the time. I was trying to escape from my family, especially from my abusive father. I used heroin, to ease my pain. It got to the point where I started dealing so I could buy my own.

I was first arrested at the age of 15 and sent to prison. At that time, I had learned how to steal a car and rob a house. All to feed my addiction. Two weeks after I got out of prison, I went back to my old habits and did some awful things. I got myself back into prison at the age of 21. During my 4 months in prison, I did not stop my addiction and continued using heroin. My mother came to visit me and noticed how high I was at one point which made her stop visiting me for 3 whole weeks.

This made me decide to stop. When I got out of prison the second time, I wanted to commit suicide but could not do it myself. So, I asked my own father to take my life. However, he came to me, hugged me strongly, and supported me.

The next day, he took me to the hospital and I found myself at CDLL Rehabilitation Center. I am very proud of what I have accomplished. My relationship with my parents had improved. I have a good job. I am renting a house. I am married and we are having our first baby!

OUR PREVENTION PROGRAM

We have been addressing the spreading problem of substance abuse by increasing our prevention work in schools and raising awareness through a community-based approach that is based on international models and that engages leaders, institutions, parents and their children in confronting together misconceptions and changing attitudes towards drug and alcohol abuse.

Actually we are mainly focusing on drug awareness and life skills addressed to children, adolescents, youth, parents and professionals. We conduct sessions, workshops, trainings, conferences and campaigns to respond to the needs of the community and to strengthen the youth and their families to become positive and contributing members of their society, while living healthy, safe, and drug free.

In 2017 we began implementing the pilot project for our community-based prevention through an integrated strategy focusing not only on the youth, but on their surrounding environment:

DID YOU KNOW

Any volunteer can join our training to become an agent of prevention to support us in our activities next to the parents and youth. We are all concerned and we believe that we should act like a community.

Community based prevention project in Blat (October 2017 - June 2018)

Under the “Vocational training of Youth in Lebanon” in partnership with UNICEF, AVSI and CESVI and in collaboration with Blat municipality, CDLL started the implementation of its first community-based project “Together Towards a Healthier Community” from October 2017 till June 2018 in the region of Blat that counts 30,000 Lebanese residents and 9,000 Syrian refugees. During the whole period of the project the prevention team is responsible to closely work with 13 community leaders, train 38 Police Officers and 96 prevention agents, organize conferences for 200 parents and drug awareness sessions for 400 adolescents and youth, and implement 7 youth-driven initiatives targeting 8640 persons in Blat.

NATIONAL AWARENESS CAMPAIGN 2017-2018

As the drug problem in Lebanon is arising and through surveys conducted with our beneficiaries in rehab, we are witnessing three main shocking facts. Number one is the drop of the age of first intake to as early as 9 years old with relatively cheap and accessible way to substance, number two is the fact that many addicts do not get to treatment because they are unaware of the existence of treatments, or doubting their efficiency and number three is that families are uninformed about importance of early intervention, they try to manage the problem secretly fearing of shame and instead of referring their kids early on to professional and organizations they are delaying their access to treatment while their kids pile up very bad mental, physical and social health issues.

Therefore to encourage addicts to access to treatment and their family and society to support their choice to recovery CDLL developed and launched a National Awareness Campaign “BalaDrugs - Judge less, help more”.

The main tool of this campaign was the creation of www.baladrugs.com an online substance misuse education service in Arabic and English.

The platform saw more than 1468 visitors in the first 7 weeks after its launch with a surprisingly regional impact that reached Syria, United States of America, United Arab Emirates, The campaign also was closely associated with a 250% rise in demands for treatment in CDLL's admission program.

“BalaDrugs - Judge less, help more” was launched through a press conference on the 12th of January 2017 under the patronage of his Excellency Minister of Social Affairs Mr. Pierre Bou Assi and in the presence of his Excellency MP Dr. Atef Majdalani. The campaign showed great success thanks to the collaborative effort of all our partners: the ministries of: Social Affairs, Public Health, Education and Higher Education, Youth and Sports, Culture and Information, the Internal Security Forces, our academic partner the American University of Beirut-AUB and our corporate partners INDEVCO group and LIA Insurance and our creative partner J. Walter Thompson one of the best leading creative agencies in the world and last our media partners from TVs, cinemas and radio stations, to outdoor displays, magazines, online portals and social networks and other printing materials, posters and flyers.

Baladrugs was softly launched in 2017 and we are looking forward for 2018 to continue our work with our partners and focus groups from youth and caregivers in order to further develop it so that it reaches every person in our society and answers their needs and concerns.

R, 62 years old, Father of M, M recovering from Drug Addiction

Drug addiction is a very difficult experience. Sometimes I think it was my fault that my son resorted to drugs. However, I try not to blame myself. Back then, I did not know anything about the substances. I had only heard about drugs being used during the war by soldiers, but that was it. I never would have imagined my own child would become an addict at the age of 15. My wife and I were not entirely aware of the consequences of drugs, and we did not know what to do. When things took a turn for the worse, we couldn't go to anyone except CDLL. This experience changed me as a father. I used to think it was only my job to provide money for the house, school, university, etc. But now, I try to spend more time with my son. I would sometimes think he was still mad at me for forcing him to recover, but our bond has grown. We even went hiking last week, just the two of us!

J, Mother of E, E Recovering from Drug Addiction

My husband and I faced financial problems, which we tried to keep from our three children. My son, E, who was an honor student, started to get bad grades at school. He was always down and sleepy. I just thought he was ill. Until, one day, our neighbor asked me if my son was smoking hashish. I froze in shock. Why would he ask me such a question! I knew that E had made some new friends at his new school, so I grew suspicious. After my husband and I confronted him, he would not open up to us. He would promise to stop and I would believe him. I blamed myself for believing him. Things got worse and E started using heroin. Every time he would go to the hospital for detox, he would start using again as soon as he got out. It was hell for our family. I wish at school, they would have talked to the children about drugs. I wish they would have raised awareness about its consequences. I wanted to share this with everyone so I could tell parents not to hide their problems from their children. Communicate with them and talk to them. It will help them not hide their own problems from you.

OUR COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Youth is a critical time in human development. Today's young people are approaching adulthood in a world vastly different from previous generations; destructive lifestyles characterized by drugs use, delinquency, violence, school failure, AIDS, electronic communication, migration, and economic challenges that have have radically transformed the landscape.

Through our community development program we strive to improve the climate for the positive development of young people by focusing on improving their business educational level, work readiness and vocational skills, instill moral character, and help them pursue their dreams by connecting them to the workplace and giving them access to social and health services focusing on solving the obstacles that could stand in their way.

By creating such opportunities we improve the young person's chances of having a positive transition into adulthood, with the desired outcome of being a healthy, happy, productive adult civically engaged capable of making contributions to their own development, their family's development, and their community's development.

This initiative was launched before Christmas with a main purpose to help our beneficiaries in seeing the light at the end of their dark paths and give them the hope of a better tomorrow, the hope of winning their fight over their dependency. Thank you for taking part of it!

VOLUNTEERING

As much as our volunteers are engaged in fundraising, their number one aim is to work hand in hand to raise awareness about the cause and support our programs offering their time in their area of expertise. We truly believe in volunteers' potential and value they bring to our NGO; this year we have conducted a 2 days seminar with our volunteers' core team and experts. The seminar started with an induction day around our facilities where they got acquainted with CDLL advancements and met with staff and beneficiaries of each program, followed by sessions and workshops conducted this year by experts from our partner the Catholic Relief Service to launch the year and have our volunteers take part of our strategy.
